SUMMER READING SUGGESTIONS The Blessed Sacrament - The Greatest Treasure by Michael Müller, CSSR “Mass alone of itself is an inexhaustible treasure of graces. Be careful to profit well by it. Resolve, if possible, to hear Mass every day. Do not imitate those lukewarm Christians who stay away from church for the most trivial reasons.” p. 217 “I know no place,” answered the pious tradesman, “where there is so much to be obtained for this world and for the next as in the Church,” and in proof of what he said, he added the words of Our Lord: “Seek ye, therefore, the kingdom of God and His justice, and all these things shall be added unto you.” (Matt.6:33). John immediately understood the good lesson which his friend wished to teach him, and enlightened by the Holy Ghost, he resolved to change his life and to hear Mass every day. He did so. In a very short time, he found himself greatly improved temporally and spiritually.” p. 208 “After all these reflections on Mass, no one will find it strange if the Holy Church obliges her children under pain of mortal sin to assist at this Holy Sacrifice on Sundays and festivals of obligation. On the other days, it is true, the faithful are not bound to hear Mass, but our holy Mother the Church earnestly wishes that all her children should and would assist at this salutary Sacrifice as often as possible. In most churches, Mass is said every day; in some, several times a day; and where ever it is offered, the people are invited to assist. “The good Catholic then will feel himself impelled always to assist at this Holy Sacrifice, unless an important reason prevents him from so doing.” “St. Louis, King of France, used to hear two Masses every day, sometimes even three or four. Some of his courtiers murmured at this, but the King gave them a sharp reprimand, saying: ‘If I were to ask you to play or to go hunting with me three or four times a day, you would find no time too long...’” p. 215 “Do not think the time is lost which you spend in hearing Mass; it will prove most profitable to you in this life and in the next also. See how many sins you will expiate by it! How may punishments you will avert! How many graces you will draw down upon yourself and others! How many merits you will store up for Heaven! This I can promise you: be diligent in hearing Mass, and you will find in it all that you need, your happiness here below and your happiness hereafter. Amid all the vicissitudes of life, at the Altar you will find true peace and support.” p. 217 SUNDAY CATECHISM The Sisters will teach Sunday Catechism classes. Please sign-up on the bulletin board. We need a general number interested for planning purposes. ACADEMY NEWS As we approach the first day of school, we invite any available hands to bring the academy building back into a fresh and clean state. All are welcome! We will have general cleaning days on Monday & Tuesday, August 24-25, if you can spare a few hours. For academy families, these volunteer hours can be recorded towards this academic year.
